

Monologues

These short monologues are spoken by various kindergartners in THE PEOPLE GARDEN.

Memorize your favorite one, and practice it with lots of energy, good volume, diction and expression.

The Boss

When I grow up, I'm going to be a executive, like my father... and I'll have big desk covered with papers. And I'll always carry a cell phone, so when someone at the office screws up,

I can call up and yell at them (shouts into pretend phone:) YOU'RE FIRED!!!!

The Animal Doctor

When I grow up, I'm going to be an animal doctor and have my very own horse in my bedroom, so when he gets sick,

I can take care of him ... and even though animal doctors can't eat any meat, I still want to be a ve-ge-tra-narian, 'cause I love animals!!!

The Teenager

When I grow up and I'm a teenager - like my sisters – I'll have my very own Facebook page.

I'll even be allowed to wear make-up, so I'll have lots of boyfriends to take me on dates to the mall.

And sometimes I'll sneak out of the house and stay up real late and.... (suddenly alarmed) ... uh, oh...I wasn't supposed to tell anyone that!

Kid Forever

I'm going to be a astronaut and fly around in a space shuttle all day long...

(makes flying gestures) Swoosh, swoosh . . . No, wait...I know!

I'll be a ninja and chop up bad guys...Hi-Ya! ("chops" air)

...but Mom says that she wants me to be the President, and Dad says he thinks I should be a lawyer...

Oh, I don't know, maybe I'll just stay a kid forever!!!

Little Bean Sprouts

You have to take good care of the little sprouts if you want them to grow up good. They need water and sunlight...and love. If you keep them in the dark or don't give them enough water, then they won't grow up right and they might even go away. And if you give them too much water, then that's not good either, because they could get weak and droopy. And you should never forget to take care of them, 'cause then could get lonely.
